 - [Sessional papers, 1807-1859, in 2174 volumes, mostly in folio] *F.—
- Note.*— The sessional papers, since the year 1835, have been arranged under the following divisions:
1. Bills public.
 2. Reports from committees.
 3. Reports from commissioners.
 4. Accounts and papers.
- From 1812 to 1834, the arrangement varied somewhat, from year to year, but corresponded in general with that which has since become established. Preceding the year 1812 comparatively few papers were published, and no classification of them appears to have been attempted. For the greater part of the series, general title-pages and tables of contents are found, specifying all, or the most important, subjects in each volume, or in each general division.
- The following list contains Reports of Committees and Commissioners, and documents included among "Accounts and Papers" and "State Papers," arranged in alphabetical order, under the title given to the report or paper, in the general title-pages and tables of contents, named above, without aiming at further completeness, except to give, where no title-pages nor tables of contents were found, the subjects of those papers supposed to be of special importance. State papers (conventions, treaties, etc.) are found in the last volume or two of each session. An index to each session will generally be found in the last volume for the session. Other indexes are enumerated under the word Index, below, and to these reference must be had for a minute and full view of the matters treated in this mass of papers.
- The letters A. P. stand for Accounts and Papers.

- Note. — On n'a jamais pu avoir aucune notice sur ce prétendu Isidorus Peccator. On ne connaît que sa collection des Décretales; et comme cette collection est originellement et fondamentalement celle de S. Isidore de Séville, il n'est pas raisonnable de supposer un Isidore différent de ce saint et savant évêque.
